CARTHAGE CENTRAL SCHOOL
CARTHAGE, NEW YORK

DEDICATION

MR. ROBERT G. WALLACE

We of the Senior Class dedicate this book with pride and affection to Mr. Robert G. Wallace, who for many years has guided students through their high school sagas with his noted courage, ability, devotion, and perseverance.

As time passes and we grow older we may tend to forget, but the one thing time cannot dim is our past memories of our school building. In this book we have tried to preserve familiar scenes throughout the Carthage Central High School Building.

To the Class of 1957

You will be the fifty-first and the last class to complete its High School course in this building. Since 1906, one thousand six hundred and fourteen other Seniors have preceded you. Is it any wonder that the floors creak, the furniture is dilapidated and the facilities inconvenient?

Next year I shall be facing new adventures just as you will, for in a sense, we will be graduated together. I wish for each of you success in whatever you undertake and that in the future you have many fond memories of your High School days in this old building.
